   Special Guests: Amy Kosanovich Dickerson and Jacqueline Gharapour Wernz, Franczek Radelet
   One of the themes of the 2014 Session is the impact of school discipline policies on minority students. Several bills have been filed in an effort to reduce the number of out-of-school suspensions and expulsions, reduce the number of students leaving high school with a criminal record, and increase the use of restorative measures in managing student behavior and discipline issues.
   Join us to learn more about the proposed legislation and hear from our legal experts – Jackie and Amy – about the importance of crafting quality school discipline policies and processes, how to manage concerns with student safety and privacy, and trends in bullying cases and other student discipline issues.
7. Adjourn
